Here is a peek at a few of the other standout points

Here's a list from 2K's site of NBA 2K21 MT what the City is: "Imagine a map that's many, many times bigger than preceding Neighborhoods. A design that looks like a modern metropolis, complete with towering skyscrapers, sprawling plazas, and a town centre. And with that, I'm incredibly proud to announce that Affiliations are BACK! I'll go into more details on Affiliations a bit further below. For now, let us keep painting the picture of what The City is. The City is the most ambitious execution of a digital basketball community. . . ever. The sheer quantity and variety of buildings and basketball courts which we could create and fit in the map still amaze me to this day!"

Here is a peek at a few of the other standout points. This year, the new City environment includes the North Side Knights, South Side Vipers, Beasts of the East, and the Western Wildcats as the directional agents that urge for the aforementioned boroughs. Here's a quote from that portion of the blog:

"The City is big. The yield of Affiliations, however, may be just as big - if not larger. For many years now, one of the most requested features from the NBA 2K community has been Affiliation-based gameplay. Obviously, we are incredibly excited to bring it back in a meaningful way that offers competitive thickness to the City. This is something we have wanted to Buy 2K21 MT do for several years now, and the power of the next-gen consoles finally makes it possible for us to view our vision through."
