

er wer

Personal Rank 6

articles 27   comments 0   ratings 0   read 0%   time 00:03:17

I emptied my bank account for this

Also forgot to Animal Crossing Items mention the bit where Melvin's parents didn't want to see their kid humiliated so they talked to their buddy in the nation club that runs Robingoods, the delivery service which delivers people their Nintendo's.

The parents from the country club compelled Robingoods to halt delivery to Kevin and his friends. They did but soon realised it is prohibited to mess with folks mail, so that they began delivering but they left them send the Nintendo's into Kevin and his friends by cart and horse instead of trucks, to slow down things. But it doesn't matter since Kevin has made a lot more friends all over the world now. Ape's together strong

My brain hurts from each of these words. But I have to understand one more thing, until I feast on more paint chips; Who's owed the interest about the shorts? Who gets all this money that's really pricey for Melvin? The ape hive mind has persuaded me that Melvin has been paying millions or billions on interest. Where does all this go?

I emptied my bank account for this. But oh well it's just money I will work more selfemployed and make it back I have cash stashed and cash owed me outside. My invoices are paid for a Month or Animal Crossing Bells For Sale two but none of that pales compared to this????????? I will loose money if that means billionaires do exactly the same.